The Future of Freshness

A TheraBreath Flavor Playbook workshop

Darwin room

Two hours
Six flavors to taste

A NOTE FROM THE FLAVOR FACTORY

Dear TheraBreath team,

For decades, freshness in oral care has meant one thing: mint. Cold, clean, strong. It has served the category well. But the people who buy TheraBreath now live in a much bigger world of flavor. They order yuzu spritzes, drink matcha, choose skincare by the botanical, and wind down with chamomile.

On November 9 we'd like to show you what we see coming, let you taste six directions we've built for an oxygen-based rinse, and then hand the pen to you. By noon, we'll have written the TheraBreath Flavor Playbook together.

This pre-brief takes about five minutes. The only homework is at the end: tell us what your freshness feels like.

With thanks,

The Flavor Factory team

THE IDEA IN ONE LINE

Freshness is evolving.

Consumers now understand freshness through a far broader sensory vocabulary. The next era of oral care won't come from another mint. It will come from designing different kinds of freshness for different people, moments and needs.

WHY WE'RE MEETING • THE FOUR QUESTIONS YOU ASKED US

01

The Signals

What's changing?

02

The Territories

What could freshness become?

03

The Moments

Where can flavor create growth?

04

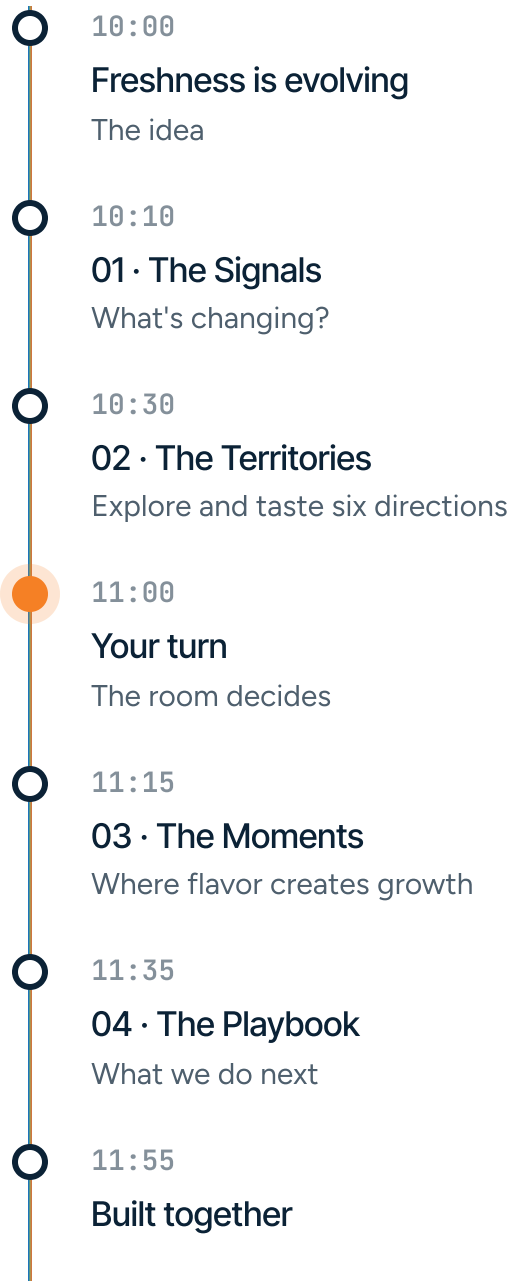

The Playbook

What do we do with all of this?

THE TWO HOURS

Teach. Show. Taste. Discuss. Decide.

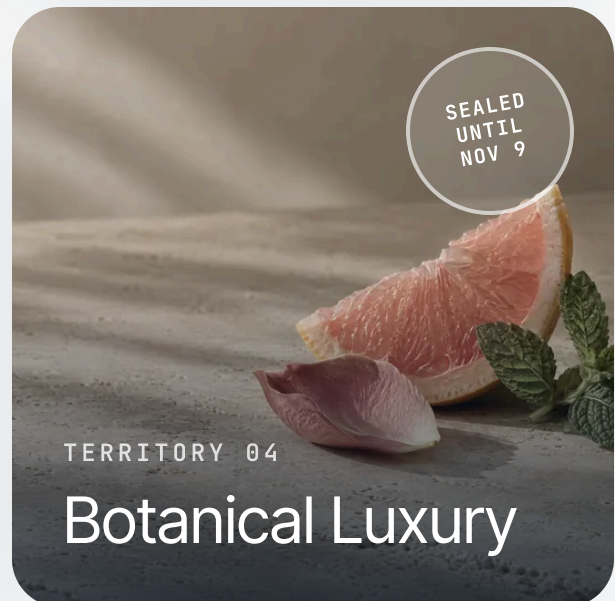

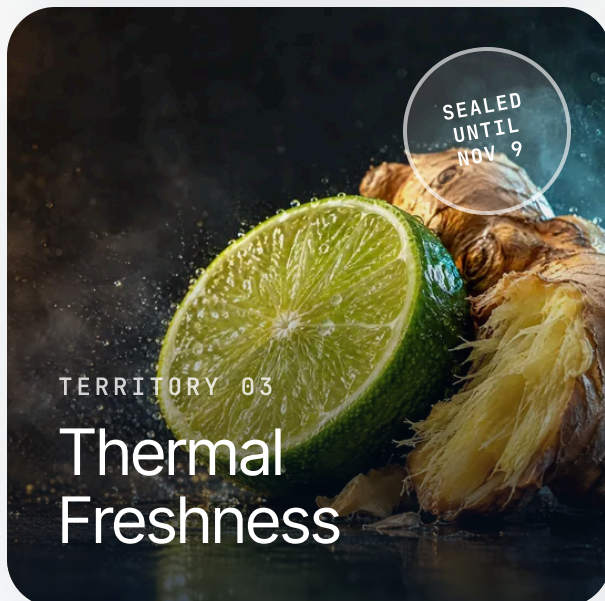

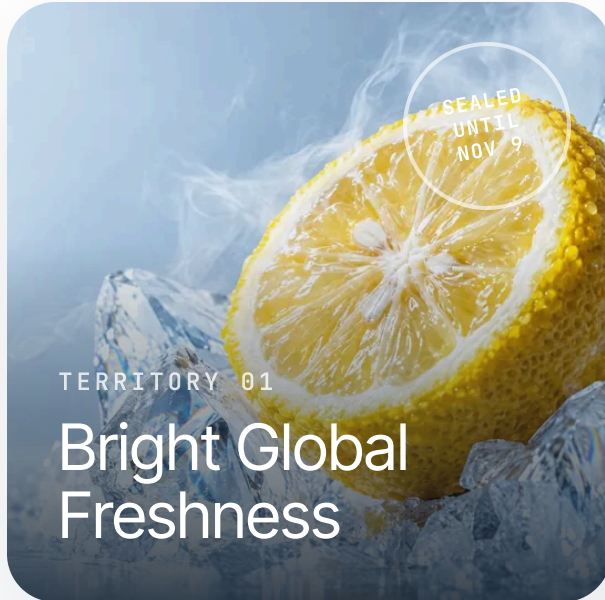

Nobody lectures for 45 minutes. We alternate: a little context, then the flavors, then your judgment.

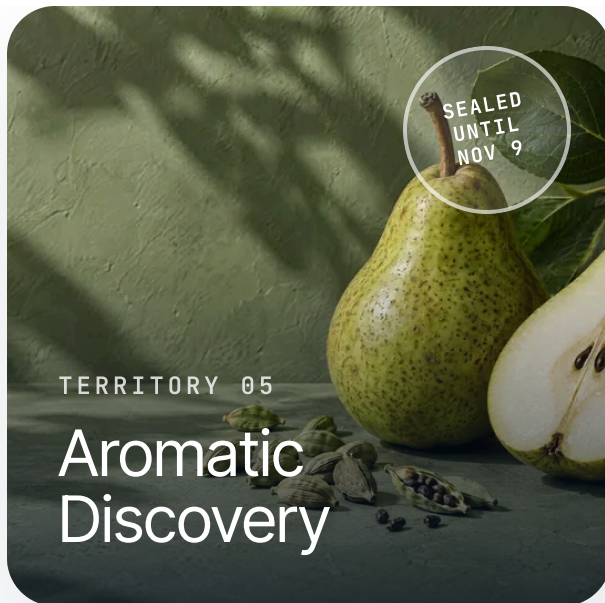

WHAT YOU'LL TASTE

Six territories. Six sealed flavors.

Each territory is a direction freshness could take, with a hero concept built for TheraBreath's rinse base. The names stay sealed until you taste them.

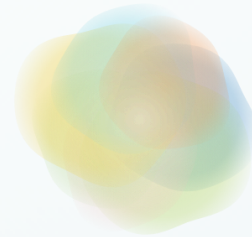

YOUR FIVE MINUTES OF HOMEWORK

What does your freshness feel like?

Halfway through the session we'll stop presenting and ask the room to vote on these same five lines. Set your own answer now, save it, and bring your instinct into the room.

Open the online pre-brief to set your freshness profile with the five sliders, then save it as an image to bring to the session.

MY FRESHNESS PROFILE

My freshness is perfectly balanced. Move the sliders to make it yours.

THREE THINGS TO THINK ABOUT

01

When did a flavor last surprise you, in a drink, a dessert or a skincare product? What made it feel new rather than strange?

02

At what moments of the day do you want freshness to feel different? Is there a moment TheraBreath doesn't own yet?

03

How adventurous can TheraBreath be before it stops feeling like TheraBreath?

ABOUT THE TASTING

The palate is the presentation.

Six flavor concepts

Each is prepared in a rinse base and served in small cups. These are flavor explorations, not finished products.

Rinse, then expectorate

Swish for a few seconds and spit. Water and plain crackers will be on the table between samples.

Come with a clean palate

If you can, skip coffee and mint gum in the hour before we start.

Tell us about sensitivities

If you have allergies or would rather not taste, let us know ahead of time. There's plenty to do without tasting.

See you on November 9.
