

THERABREATH FLAVOR PLAYBOOK NOV 9, 2026 · 10:00 AM · DARWIN

Expand what fresh can feel like.

A working session to define TheraBreath's flavor playbook, for near-term product innovation and long-term franchise growth.

PRESENTED BY The Flavor Factory • Church & Dwight HQ, Ewing, NJ

— WHO WE ARE

A family-owned flavor house in Norco, California.

We make custom liquid and powder flavors, including for oral care. We're small on purpose: you work directly with the people formulating your flavor, and samples come back fast.

Custom, from the bench

Every flavor built for the product it goes into, liquid or powder.

Oral care is part of what we do

One of the industries we already make flavors for.

Low minimum orders

Small pilot batches keep testing a new flavor affordable.

Fast turnaround

Most orders ship within 3–5 business days.

— OBJECTIVE 01 · TRENDS

Trends shaping the future of oral care.

CONSUMER TREND

Beauty

Personal-care rituals

Oral care is joining the skincare shelf as one more step in a self-care routine.

WHERE WE SEE IT

Layered skincare routines, bathroom “shelfies”, oral care sold beside serums.

FLAVOR TREND

Flavor

A broader vocabulary

People now taste yuzu, shiso and cardamom in drinks, snacks and wellness shots.

WHERE WE SEE IT

Zero-proof bars, functional beverages, global menus, fine fragrance.

SENSORY TREND

Sensation

Sensory proof

People want an effect they can feel and describe. That is how they know it works.

WHERE WE SEE IT

Cooling skincare, tingling lip products, “you can feel it working” claims.

CONSUMER TREND

Wellness

Everyday wellness

Products earn a place in the day: morning energy, midday reset, evening calm.

WHERE WE SEE IT

Sleep and hydration rituals, adaptogen drinks, “night” versions of everything.

Flavor culture is much bigger than mint.

Twelve places reshaping what fresh can mean. A vocabulary to borrow from, not a launch list.

12 REGIONS · 4 PLATFORMS · 1 ROOM

— OBJECTIVE 02 · TERRITORIES

Mint is an anchor, not the whole map.

← Familiar

Classic peppermint, cool mint. Trusted, and easy to forget.

The sweet spot

Familiar enough to trust, different enough to remember. Placements are our flavorists' read.

Exploratory →

Smoked chili cola, pickle-brine mint. Memorable once, hard to buy twice.

— THE RULE FOR EVERY IDEA

Keep one familiar cue. Change one thing people notice.

KEEP

One familiar freshness cue

Cooling, a clean finish, a thread of mint.

CHANGE

One thing people notice

A fruit, a botanical, a warmth, a moment.

GET

Familiar · Fresh · Distinct

Something people trust and still talk about.

● Arctic Yuzu

KEEP

The cold, clean finish

CHANGE

Sharp Japanese citrus

● Green Tea Cucumber

KEEP

Gentle, clean freshness

CHANGE

A calm, spa-like botanical

● Ginger Lime

KEEP

Crisp cooling

CHANGE

A little warmth

CONCEPT 01 / 06

● SAMPLE 318

Polar Light

Arctic Yuzu · Bright citrus, very cold.

WHO People who want strong freshness without the burn

WHEN Wake-up

The first breath outside on a clear winter morning, lit by citrus.

|             |                                         |
|-------------|-----------------------------------------|
| OPENING     | Sharp, bright yuzu peel.                |
| DEVELOPMENT | A clean cold wave builds, with no burn. |
| FINISH      | Bright, awake, completely clean.        |

FORMULATION NOTE

Build the yuzu from oxidation-tolerant top notes, since citral-heavy lemon profiles fade in oxidizing rinse systems. Non-menthol cooling agents carry the cold without the burn.

PLATFORMS

New Fresh

Sensory Proof

STAY CLEAR OF

Lemon mouthwash. Snowflakes.

CONCEPT 02 / 06

● SAMPLE 742

Glasshouse

Green Tea Cucumber · Botanical calm, poured cold.

WHO Wellness and skincare-routine shoppers

WHEN Midday reset

A glass of cold water in a quiet, sunlit room.

|                    |                                       |
|--------------------|---------------------------------------|
| OPENING     | Soft green sencha, cool and light.    |
| DEVELOPMENT | Watery cucumber freshness settles in. |
| FINISH      | Hydrated and calm, nothing left over. |

FORMULATION NOTE

Cucumber's green notes are volatile and fragile. A quiet spearmint backbone protects the profile and keeps it reading as oral care.

PLATFORMS

New Fresh

Ritual by Time

STAY CLEAR OF

Health-food store. Cucumber slices on eyes.

CONCEPT 03 / 06

● SAMPLE 506

Limelight

Ginger Lime · Cool lime with a little warmth.

WHO Flavor-curious adults who find mint predictable

WHEN After coffee

Cold lime on the tongue, then a spark of warmth underneath.

|                    |                                     |
|--------------------|-------------------------------------|
| OPENING     | A zesty lime snap.                  |
| DEVELOPMENT | Ginger warmth rises under the cool. |
| FINISH      | Crisp, energized, clean.            |

FORMULATION NOTE

Warmth has to read as lively, never as burn, because no-burn is the TheraBreath promise. Keep ginger's pungency well below irritation and let cooling lead.

PLATFORMS

Sensory Proof

Ritual by Time

STAY CLEAR OF

Margaritas. Anything that looks like a cocktail.

CONCEPT 04 / 06

● SAMPLE 261

Pink Hour

Grapefruit Rose Mint · Golden hour, in pink.

WHO Beauty shoppers who treat oral care as self-care

WHEN Before going out

Morning light through pink glass.

- |             |                                                |
|-------------|------------------------------------------------|
| OPENING     | Juicy pink grapefruit.                         |
| DEVELOPMENT | A dry, green rose heart: more stem than petal. |
| FINISH      | Cool mint comes back to close.                 |

FORMULATION NOTE

Use a green, geranium-leaning rose accord rather than a sweet floral. That keeps it far from soap and perfume cues.

PLATFORMS

- Elevated Escape
- New Fresh

STAY CLEAR OF

Perfume counter. Bath soap.

CONCEPT 05 / 06

● SAMPLE 893

Green Orchard

Pear Cardamom Mint · Pear and cardamom, finished cool.

WHO Shoppers who pay more for a premium experience

WHEN After a meal

A chef’s pairing, translated into freshness.

|             |                                        |
|-------------|----------------------------------------|
| OPENING     | Crisp green pear, cool.                |
| DEVELOPMENT | Cardamom’s airy, eucalyptus-like lift. |
| FINISH      | Soft, clean spice held by mint.        |

FORMULATION NOTE

Cardamom naturally carries 1,8-cineole, the same cool note as eucalyptus. It is a built-in bridge between spice and mint.

PLATFORMS

Elevated Escape

STAY CLEAR OF

Holiday baking. Dessert.

CONCEPT 06 / 06

● SAMPLE 437

Lights Out

Chamomile Vanilla Mint · The last rinse of the day.

WHO Anyone with a night routine

WHEN Wind-down, before bed

Lights low. The day is done.

|                    |                                      |
|--------------------|--------------------------------------|
| OPENING     | Gentle, soft mint.                   |
| DEVELOPMENT | Honeyed chamomile calm.              |
| FINISH      | A dry vanilla softness, still clean. |

FORMULATION NOTE

Keep the vanilla dry and airy, low in sweetness, so the finish reads clean rather than dessert.

PLATFORMS

Ritual by Time

STAY CLEAR OF

Tea packaging. Candles.

Brand Fit × Technical Reality × Consumer Desire

Does it fit the brand?

Could TheraBreath credibly own this: gentle, dentist-formulated, unmistakably clean?

Can we make it?

Will the flavor hold up in TheraBreath's oxidizing, alcohol-free system over shelf life?

Will people choose it?

Is it appealing, easy to understand, different, and something people buy again?
